Donna Galchick will be the soloist, accompanied by Joyce Whinnery.

'Men From Mars' Taken Into Custody

LISBON — Four Lisbon High School students kept village police and sheriff's deputies on the move Sunday night before they were located, warned and taken home by sheriff's deputies.

Around 11 p.m. the sheriff's office received a call from two frantic girls that two 'men from Mars,' wearing trench coats and helmets and wielding rifles, were taking two men in white up the road at Rt. 164 near the intersection of the Lisbon - Leetonia Rd.

The sheriff's department had no deputies in the vicinity at that time, so Lisbon police went out to the area, but didn't locate anything. Another call came in later from a resident on E. Chestnut St., who reported seeing the same thing.

In the meantime, deputies converged at Lisbon along with the state highway patrol, and at 12:55 p.m. Deputy Herman Wellman found the pranksters and took them home.

Columbiana Home Damaged by Fire

COLUMBIANA — An overheated furnace in a utility room started a fire which caused damage up to $1,400 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parker of 550 W. Park Ave. this morning.

Mrs. Parker discovered the blaze at 8:15 a.m. and called the Fire Department. Chief Marcus Hum stated that copper tubing on the appliances in the room had melted and acted as sprinklers, nearly extinguishing the flames by the time firemen arrived.

The blaze was completely out by 8:50 a.m. Mrs. Parker and her nine-year-old son were in the house at the time but escaped injury.

Between $800 and $900 damage was done to the contents and another $400 to $500 to the home. Chief Hum said the loss is covered by insurance. The fire was confined to the utility room with some water damage to the kitchen.

2 Are Cited After Traffic Collisions

Failure to yield the right-of-way caused two minor accidents in Salem over the weekend, according to police.

Donald C. Vincent, 20, of 912 N. Union Ave. was cited when he drove into the path of a car operated by Carl S. Schrichel, 24, of 911 N. Ellsworth Ave., which was traveling west on E. State St. Saturday at 9:16 p.m.

Vincent told police that he was driving south on Vine, had stopped at the stop sign. He said that as he was starting onto State St. he hit the other car. Vincent was fined $10 and costs in mayor's court Sunday morning.

Gust Christofaris, 44, of RD 4 Salem, was cited for backing his vehicle out of the driveway at 280 Jennings Ave. into the path of the auto driven by Thurman R. Tuel, 23, of Alliance which was going south on Jennings Sunday at 5:45 p.m.

Jury Selection Begun For Sam Miner Trial

LISBON — A jury was being selected late this morning in the armed robbery trial of Sam Miner, 32, of Youngstown, charged with the robbery at Lipplatt's Linoleum Store, west of Salem on Feb. 27.

The jury will be sworn in by Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp.

A jury trial two weeks ago found John Pounds, 33, of Alliance, guilty of same offense. Both men were indicted by the April Grand Jury after they were shot by Alliance police when they tried to escape after abandoning a stolen truck used in the armed robbery.

Time Now to Vote

If all goes well, a Senate vote on the civil rights bill will come into sight Tuesday when favorable action is taken on a motion to limit further debate.

The issue is whether enough time has passed since late last March for both sides to present their case. There was an apparent majority for the civil rights bill from the beginning as large as the House majority had been. Only the Senate custom of unlimited debate held up the vote.

Since the custom was instituted in 1917, here have been only 28 motions to limit further debate. Five carried—the Versailles Treaty in 1919, the World Court in 1926, branch banking in 1927, prohibition reorganization in 1927 and the communications satellite in 1962.

Eleven motions have been made to limit debate on civil rights bills. All have failed. But even if the showdown next Tuesday is in favor of the irreconcilable foes of civil rights, they cannot claim victory.

THERE WILL BE a civil rights bill passed one way or another before November. Every representative and senator with Negro constituents who are permitted to vote and with white constituents tired of the debate on the subject wants action before the fall election.

They did not resent the debate this year, because they recognize its importance in filling in the legislative history of a key measure. It has not really been a filibuster but a campaign of education in which both sides have had every chance to make their case.

One significant thing has emerged during this educational campaign—the fact it is not the civil rights of Negroes and other minorities that is the real issue but the authority of the federal government to enforce the Constitution.

THE CONSTITUTION guarantees in the 14th amendment that "no state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States . . . nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

States rights legalists have argued that the states need pay no heed to this guarantee. They have scorned it. They say they intend to scorn it further.

This is the point to be settled in the 1964 vote on the civil rights bill. Can the federal government enforce the Constitution of the United States?

Would It Pay to Work?

Who would have guessed, back in the good old days when a job was something to cherish, that a worker today would almost envy those who are temporarily unemployed?

Or, to put it another way, who today would be willing to work for $35 or $40 a week?

This is precisely the problem that arose recently over the prospective layoff of 7,800 workers, or about one-third of the American Motors Corp. force, in Wisconsin.

They were scheduled to be laid off and remain off the job for the eight weeks remaining in the 1964 model season.

A union leader said some of the members were complaining about being retained on the job.

The reason: Weekly unemployment benefits amount to 62 per cent of normal pay, plus $1.50 a week for each dependent. Unemployment benefits, moreover, are not taxable.

This means a $3-an-hour worker earns $120 a week on the job, while a laid-off worker with two dependents collects $77.40. Part of the unemployment benefit—$53 a week—comes from the state. The rest is paid from a trust fund financed by American Motors under terms of the UAW contract.

Older men with seniority complained they would be getting only $35 to $40 for working—above the amount they would draw if laid off.

In other words, which is the stronger incentive—to earn approximately $1.00 an hour, or take a vacation?

The times being what they are, the answer should be obvious.

We Liked to Laugh

Those of us who laughed with Amos 'n' Andy long before Negroes got sensitive about blackface comedy are sorry about the sour reaction to reruns in a Chicago TV station. We can understand why Negroes object, things being as they are in this supersensitive period of race relations. But we wonder if Negroes understand why it is possible to poke fun without malice.

We are thinking of all the comedians

Tax Clean-Up

Since Salem's income tax went into effect three years ago, the auditor's office has kept track of 20 alleged business violators who have not filed returns in compliance with the law. In addition, there are 167 individual delinquencies.

The city has been more than patient. In fact, perhaps, negligent, but starting this week the first of the recorded violators will answer to court subpoenas and appear with their business records.

The city tax law, levying a fee of one-half of one per cent, has been complied with by the majority who find it hard to understand why others would ignore the requirement of even filing a return, whether or not a payment was due.

The crackdown on violators is long overdue.

Letter From Max

By Martin R. Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

Folk-singing is such a big business these days I wondered whether you had thought about trying to cash in on it.

Nowadays anyone with a couple of strings on a cigar box is bucking for a gold record.

It calls to mind get-rich schemes of a few years back; like guinea pigs, white mice and rabbits to be sold to laboratories and hospitals; growing ginseng for its "medicinal" value; raising monk and chinchilla in the basement for their fur, or raising photogenic children like Jackie Cooper or Shirley Temple and making umpteen million dollars.

What started me off on this is that someone found a veritable gold mine in our attic in the form of an old banjo. This banjo is obviously of antebellum vintage, but just which bellum it is ante is unknown. It could be the banjo that Eddie Peabody learned on.

The important thing is that possession of this banjo gives us the first ingredient necessary for a folk-singer. A workman should not quarrel with his tools. He has to make do with what he has. So we are over the first hurdle toward the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

BEFORE YOU THINK I may be dogging it and waiting for the money to roll in, I hasten to tell you I am really applying myself trying to learn the folk-singing trade. I practice 10 hours a day snapping my fingers. First, there were just blisters, but the necessary calluses are beginning to form.

Certain natural-born accomplishments are always advantageous in any given field, and this is where my unsteady hand is going to pay off. My hit-or-miss plucking of the banjo strings will produce arrangements out of this world.

Another native gift I have is my voice. I can't carry a tune any longer than a bank carries a deadbeat. You know the old saying, "Nothing worthwhile ever comes easily." My singing voice can be made to sound so terrible it is a wonderful incentive to make me work to perfect it as terrible to a point where it sounds as a folk-singer. My larynx also has blisters, but they are changing to calluses, too.

A NICE SMILE is practically a necessity in this type of entertainment. I have been strengthening my smiling muscles while snapping my fingers. However, I do not smile 10 hours a day because blisters or calluses on smiling muscles are looked at askance.

A good head of hair is another item in the folk-singing repertoire, as you probably have observed. This could be the one thing that nips my budding career. extreme last resort but is not even being considered now, because I still have hope of growing hair on the top of my neck.

Anything is possible, you know, if you want it enough and this is my strategy to get bushy-haired for the waiting, cheering crowds.

Keep me posted if you hear anything.

'Mainstream' Talk Is Irrelevant

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Among the many vague words which have been introduced into current jargon is "mainstream." It is quite commonly applied to politics, especially to the state of the Republican party.

The recentness of the use of the word is shown by the fact that with one exception the dictionaries I have consulted do not list "mainstream" at all. The very latest edition of Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines it as "a prevailing current or direction of activity or influence."

Those who have been using the word in opposing Sen. Goldwater fail to tell us when and how or where their particular "philosophy prevailed." The Republican party, over the 100 years of its existence, has held many different positions.

IN FACT, only an utterly naive individual or a partisan careless about the truth can find consistency in "current or direction" in either political party over past years.

Since the word is lifted from natural phenomena, its political application resembles the meandering course of a river which flows over a flat country. With every spring flood the course changes.

As the Civil War drew to its end, the magnanimity of Lincoln toward the seceded states promised to prevail. After Lincolnism under Thaddeus Stevens and others determined the imposition of a Carthaginian peace upon the South.

President Hayes by a magnificent show of courage, which cost him reelection, reversed this policy and pulled the Union troops out of the South. After Hayes, the Republican party needed only to wave the "bloody shirt" to win elections, and with the great growth of industrial life the GOP fell under the control of what were called the "vested interests."

Theodore Roosevelt promoted a revolt against this control which ended in the great division of the party in 1912. After Wilson, the 12 years of Republican control returned to a course sympathetic to business expansion.

THE SMASHING victories of Franklin Roosevelt resulted in a complete reorientation of his party. It abandoned its early philosophy of state and local responsibility. Federal centralization was and is in the ascendancy in that party.

This Democratic change of direction threw Republicans into confusion. A number of the hitherto devoutly observed GOP principles were taken over by the Roosevelt and Truman administrations and Congresses.

Republicans were offered two options: Either move into the area abandoned by the liberal Democrats and stand for local and state responsibility, for economy in government, and a neutral position on Negro rights; or on the other hand, stand by the traditions of earlier years and thus identify the party with the Democrats.

As is usual in politics when two diverse alternatives are offered, both were accepted.

This is what has caused the present division in the Republican party. Taft, and after his death, Goldwater, threw their immense influence toward the first of the foregoing alternatives. President Eisenhower valiantly attempted to find a middle course, and in so doing saw a Republican decline in the states and local communities.

WHAT IS CALLED conservative Republicanism has grown greatly since 1945, especially among young people, and during the past three years has threatened to take over the GOP with Goldwater as the symbol of this movement. That is where we are today on the eve of the Republican convention.

It is irrelevant, then, to talk about a "mainstream," for the mainstream will largely be determined by what the party stands for in this campaign. Or perhaps the struggle for the control of the party will still persist.

Soviet Russia's Dilemma

Until recently, wide credibility was given to reports of adequate growth rates in Soviet industry and agriculture.

Even if production was not always up to expectations of the various 5-year plans, certainly investment rates showed growth that was phenomenal. This was the general treatment, to give them the benefit of the doubt. Some of our economists were perhaps not observant enough to discover that growth rates do not equal performance. Undependable Soviet information also obscured the truth, but now the full story is beginning to come out. The Soviet fable is becoming quite transparent.

Even Radio Free Europe and such interested Western observers—at first—hand as the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture have provided glowing reports of growth rates in recent years. Even Mr. Freeman thought that Russian agriculture should be leading most of the world. But the facts are now revealed as otherwise.

The U. S. News & World Report has recently, in a copy-righted interview with an acknowledged expert (no amateur apologist for socialism), brought out the facts that Soviet production has yet to approach half that of the U. S. despite all the claims to the contrary. The periodical interviewed Professor G. W. Nutter, head of the economics department at the University of Virginia, who has been exposing the myth of Soviet power for many years. Some of Professor Nutter's information, the magazine says, is just now being attested by the CIA. He estimates that industrial production in Soviet Russia is now only about 30 per cent of ours.

The rulers cannot change the system without sacrificing themselves. That would be too much revolution.

WHAT WILL Russia do? Shall she enter another reactionary period with renewed Stalinist terror, stir up trouble outside so as to raid and despoil some neighbor, or attempt reforms that would make changes possible without bloodshed? Of course, the free world would like to encourage the latter.

If the U. S. should decide to stand by and see the Soviet Union through some of its crises, whether a loan is required or not, some concessions should be demanded.

Already Mr. Khrushchev has been so busy that he has forgotten to create any tension over Berlin for some months. He also could do the same with regard to Cuba and South America, even revise Communist aims in other parts of the world.

There may not be any way for the leopard to change his spots. It has mostly been the same with tyrannical governments. The dilemma is that the Russians find themselves in need of more change than they have been prepared for or can reasonably undertake.

Now that the Russian people are on the glimmering edge of truth, we must do nothing to help their leaders deceive them further.

The present temper of the East European satellites offers much hope. Some are reported thoroughly fed up with Communism, despite the most thorough efforts of Moscow to sovietize them. People in these countries, too, will be better off in the long run if the U. S. adopts a policy of strength.

Just Charge It

The credit card may never replace trading stamps in the American housewife's life but it is making definite inroads.

"Theoretically," the future of credit cards as a basic economic tool is virtually unlimited, according to a research study by a Kent State University graduate student.

Douglas W. Henderson, who will receive his master's degree in business administration next week, cautions however, that state and federal legislation is needed "to protect innocent parties from credit card abuses."

FOR INSTANCE, take a "comprehensive" (or multi-purpose) credit card. With this handy device, a person can:

—Catch a plant to New York and rent a car. Gas the auto at practically any service station.

—Place a few bets on his favorite horse at the racetrack.

—If it was a bad day at the track, pick up some headache tablets at the drugstore.

—Top off the day with an evening at the ballet.

With a string of credit cards in your wallet, you can have your teeth pulled, hire a private secretary or take an African safari.

HOW DOES THIS LEAD to legal abuses? The comprehensive credit card is literally a "blank check" and can lull the owner into a false sense of security.

A California woman went on a spending spree "with the help" of a credit card. She would end in bankruptcy court—$86,249 in debt.

In a 241-page study, Henderson concludes: A law of credit cards is badly needed. He says such legislation should be enacted at the federal level because of the interstate nature of such transactions.

Congresswoman Francis P. Bolton of Ohio has introduced a bill aimed at curbing illegal use of credit cards.

Sheer numbers dictates the need for regulatory laws, Henderson writes. Modern credit card financing is barely a decade old. Yet an estimated 60 million such cards are in circulation. Probably 10 to 12 million Americans carry them.

THAT CASH IS NOT an absolute necessity for modern living was graphically demonstrated by one man. He bet his wife $10 that the family of four could live three months by using only credit cards.

He proved his point but his wife eventually rebelled. She gave him a credit card with which he could charge cash!

China Calls Tune

By SEYMOUR FREIDIN

To neutralize old Indochina means a Communist takeover but it may be the cold-blooded solution adopted if America's allies and friends persist in their views.

This private and gloomy consensus took form as a conference in Geneva to review the torn-up conditions in Laos appeared a certainty.

American allies — except France, which through Gen. de Gaulle urges neutralization — have been taking a hard look around the world on what, if anything, they can do. Their reviews followed appeals from Secretary of State Dean Rusk to contribute more as a show of unity in the war against the Communists in South Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who recently consulted with the West German Government to push the U.S. view, made a deep impression. But it won't amount to much more than sympathetic understanding and a little extra cash towards the war effort. The McNamara mission to Bonn was, however, infinitely more successful than most other Rusk-McNamara appeals.

Everybody understood the gravity of the situation—especially since the Pathet Lao Reds chopped up the neutral forces. But nearly everybody seems dead set against going to war to resolve the crumbling conditions in old Indochina.

They apparently agree, ironically, that neutralization is only the facade for all-Communist rule for Laos, Viet Nam and, probably later on, Cambodia.

Some have even predicted a date for the ultimate fate they see out there in Southeast Asia—two years from the conclusion of the Geneva Conference. Yet they have said, on recent occasions quite passionately, they cannot do anything about it.

Their argument: Their governments are not prepared to urge their own people to face a possible war or even to go on a modest war footing because the people won't tolerate it.

A few have admitted, privately, that they haven't tested the popular will on this. But they won't take a chance, they add, of probing public opinion on such a decision. Hence, runs the reasoning, some kind of super-neutralization proposal is the only way out.

Except by the U.S. and some SEATO allies (including Thailand and the Philippines), Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam have been written off. Even if they were worth saving, much of the argument contends, few if any friendly nations are prepared to do more than some muted cheering.

On this date In 1758, Lord Jeffrey Amherst landed his troops in Nova Scotia.

In 1809, the political philosopher of the American Revolution, Thomas Paine, died.

In 1845, former President Andrew Jackson died.

In 1872, one-cent postcards were authorized by an act of the U.S. Congress.

In 1942, during World War II, Japanese submarines shelled the Australian port of Sydney.

Ten years ago—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said the United States had no intention of intervening in Indochina alone unless the whole nature of communist aggression in Asia changed.

Five years ago—The French foreign minister indicated that France would make no further commitments to NATO unless given a larger role in NATO affairs and aid in becoming a nuclear power.

High-Protein Forage

You can't afford to buy protein for dairy cows if you know how to raise high-protein forage, says Dr. H. R. Conrad at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster.

High-protein forage meets all of the nitrogen needs of dairy cows. It's a common mistake to calculate costs on the basis of total digestible nutrients in a ration, and not recognize the relative value of digestible energy and protein, Dr. Conrad says.

The contribution of protein and digestible energy to feed value should be evaluated independently, because they are used in different ways in the bodies of cows and at different efficiency rates. Recently completed experiments showed that high producing cows will easily change one-third of feed protein consumed into milk protein whereas the digestible energy is transformed to fat and milk sugar.

Dr. Conrad thinks the contribution of protein to the value of farm-produced roughages should be recognized. Forages harvested before May 31 will have more than 15 per cent protein.

Researchers have found that forages harvested before May 17 contained 20 to 21 per cent crude protein. When fed to high producing cows in combination with limited amounts of ground ear corn and corn silage, top milk production was obtained. One cow exceeded 100 pounds daily of milk containing 3.7 per cent butterfat several days after the peak of lactation. Calculations show that this type of forage has a feed value of $5 per ton when credited for the value of protein and digestible energy. This value was on the basis of the cost of these in purchased soybean oilmeal and corn respectively. The on-farm expenditure for raising this type of forage is just under $20 a ton.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Readers: Remember the letter from the college girl who wrote home that she had been invited to a coed pajama party, sponsored by her sorority? The family was shocked and so was I. But, of course, I attended college back around the time earth's crust cooled and much has changed since then.

I invited the current crop of college students to clue me. They did. By the thousands. I was told that coed pajama parties are very much a part of campus life and I must be square as a chair or I'd have known all about these gay romps — complete with mattresses.

Christine Keeler Released From Jail

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, 22, the red-haired prostitute who once shook the British government, was released from Holloway Prison today.

She had served six months of a nine-month sentence for perjury and conspiring to obstruct justice. She had tried to frame a Negro ex-lover, jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, with testimony that he beat her up.

Christine's perjury trial was part of the aftermath of a sex and security scandal which brought John D. Profumo's resignation as war minister a year ago and threatened to tumble Prime Minister Harold Macmillan from power. Macmillan rode out the storm but resigned a few months later because of his health.

Christine got three months off her sentence for good behavior.

Weekend Gem Hunter Finds $4,325 Ruby

FRANKLIN, N.C. (AP) — A ruby estimated to be worth $4,325 was found by a Georgia housewife on a weekend gem hunt at the Old Shuler mine near here.

Mrs. David Stock, 30, of Dawson Ga., bought six buckets of dirt for $1 at the mine and found a ruby weighing 86.50 carats.

Mrs. Stock, wife of a ladies ready-to-wear dealer, called it "a gift of God."

The mine charges a set fee for tourists to try their luck. Jim Brinkman, who runs a gem shop in this area, estimated the value of Mrs. Stock's ruby at $50 a carat.

We removed all the furniture and put mattresses down on the floor, which is the custom. We also put a bed in the corner and hired a professional photographer to take pictures of the couples in bed. We thought our parents would get a boot out of the snapshots.

We were wrong. Unfortunately, some parents have no sense of humor. They sent up a howl that was heard in the dean's office. That was the end of pajama parties on our campus and I think it's a shame. They were the best parties of all.

LEXINGTON, KY.: As a Kappa Alpha Theta I can tell you that no sorority here sponsors pajama parties. The fraternities put them on. Everyone wears underwear and nobody has ever gotten into trouble at a pajama party — so far as I know. It's the motel parties that are dynamite.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.: Here at Valley College we have pajama parties and they are approved by the administration, so you know they are okay.

Some nut always is trying to push things too far, which happened here last year. A freshman girl showed up in a black sheer nightgown with a matching negligee. She was asked to leave. I'm sorry to say three fellows left with her.

CHICAGO: At Northwestern the pajama parties are Yawnsville compared with the Evanston beach parties I've been to both and boin-n-ng — there is no comparison!

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.: At State College the pajama parties sponsored by the fraternities and sororities are 100 per cent. All Greek letter societies are subject to the rules of the Panhellenic Council and if they weren't decent they'd be axed.

BALTIMORE: At Johnny Hopkins we have an annual Pajama Ball. Most of the kids wear flannel nightshirts or granny-type nightgowns. They aren't the least bit sexy. You know perfectly well that nothing serious is going to happen when kids are laughing — and these getups are side-splitters.

DAVENPORT, Iowa: I went to Morningside College in Sioux City, Iowa, when you did (Class of '40) and maybe we didn't have pajama parties but those hay rides and barn parties were pretty swingin' little socials. Remember? — WHITEY.

DEAR WHITEY: Speak for yourself, Buster. I don't remember a thing.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.: At the University of Michigan, pajama parties are outmoded. The Roman toga parties are in. We wear bedsheets and sandals.

ITHACA, N.Y.: Relax, Ann, our PJ parties are tame. Come to Cornell and see for yourself, and please bring your own mattress.

PEORIA, Ill.: Here at Bradley we do have coed pajama parties and they are like a Sunday school picnic.

TORRANCE, Calif.: I never got into trouble at a pajama party. It was at a picnic that I met my Waterloo.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Donald Tanner

Yoho-Tanner Nuptials Are Held In Lisbon

Rev. James Klink was assisted by Rev. Paul Gerrard, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Lisbon, at the wedding of Miss Marilyn Yoho, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Yoho of Berlin Center, and James Alan Tanner, son of Mr.

Mrs. Donald Tanner of Lincoln Way, Lisbon, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Sebring Methodist Church.

Mrs. William Mercer was organist, and soloist was Herbert Mercer. Both are cousins of the bride.

Miss Bonnie Minth was maid of honor, and attendants were, Mrs. James Smith of Berlin Center, Miss Sherrill Hutson, Miss Mary Hitchcock of Sebring, and Mrs. Jerry Brown of Lisbon, sister of the bridegroom. Sue Ellen Woolman was junior bridesmaid, and flower girl was Adele Hawkins, nieces of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white silk organza over white taffeta gown embroidered with lily-of-the-valley design. The molded bodice boasted a low scooped neckline and elbow length sleeves. The controlled fullness of the skirt extended into a chapel length train. A forehead petal cap held her shoulder length veil of illusion and she carried a spray of white roses and stephanotis.

The attendants wore floor length sheath gowns of pink silk organza over pink taffeta with embroidered roses gracing the bodices and floating panel skirt. Self material roses of deep pink fashioned their headpieces with matching maline veils and their flowers were crescent shaped bouquets of sweetheart roses.

Dennis Smith of Newton Falls, was best man. Ushering were Robert Reedy of Youngstown, Steve Frew of Lisbon, Ronald Taylor of Pittsburgh and Jerry Brown of Lisbon. John Hawkins, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Yoho chose an aqua silk organza sheath dress, and Mrs. Tanner wore a pink silk crepe sheath. Both complemented the ensembles with corsages of white orchids.

The bride's "going away" outfit was a white silk sharkskin suit.

Gifts were presented their attendants by the bridal couple at the rehearsal dinner Friday night at the Pancake House.

The bride is employed by the First National Bank at Salem, and Mr. Tanner is a senior at Youngstown University where he is affiliated with Alpha Tau Gamma Fraternity.

Bouquets of white flowers and fernery decorated the Sebring Country Clubhouse for the reception after the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Myrtle Oesch, Miss Janice Walk, Linda Larkins, cousin of the bride, and Anne Fedorovich.

Mrs. Richard Fenstermaker of the Depot Road will entertain the Loyalty Circle Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. the Charity and Patience Circles will meet with Mrs. John Kehrer Sr. of the Lisbon Road.

CHARLOTTE E. GORBY and Henry P. Torrence, both of East Palestine, were married May 29 by Judge Luther Donbar in his chambers in Northwest County Court here.

Judge Donbar also officiated June 1 when Mary Yettick and James Blackwell, both of Maple Heights, were married in his chambers.

NEW OFFICERS were elected for the fiscal year, which begins Sept. 1, when members of the First Friends Ruth Circle met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Alfred Crawford, Arch St. They are:

President, Mrs. Leela Guy; vice president, Miss Pearl Walker; secretary, Mrs. Marie Rich; assistant secretary, Mrs. Norman Suggitt; treasurer, Mrs. L. L. McCluggage; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Marie Geist. The nominating committee was made up of Miss Mary Herbert, Miss Bessie Park and Mrs. Truman Crawford.

Mr. Henry E. Wolfgang, president, was in charge, and Mrs. Alfred Crawford gave a devotional reading on the theme, "Beyond The Highest Hill." Miss Herbert conducted the program, which included a missionary quiz and a Bible quiz.

The hostess served refreshments at the social period. The July meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Carrie Stitt, Goshen Rd. A coverdish supper will be served at 6:30.

Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha" is considered by some to be the great folk epic of the United States.

Fryfogle-Augustein Vows Are Exchanged

Jacqueline Ann Fryfogle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fryfogle of RD 1, Beloit, and Charles Edward Augustein, son of Mrs. Violet Augustein of Alliance, and the late Clement Augustein, were married Saturday in the East Goshen Friends Church.

Mrs. Robert Withers presided at the organ and Jon Yeagley was soloist.

Rev. Willis Miller officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony at an altar arch covered with fern and lily of the valley. Palms and ferns formed a background and the setting was accented with baskets of white gladioli and pastel carnations. Twin branching candelabra lighted the decor.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace designed with long sleeves and bouffant skirt of tiered ruffles made of lace and tulle which cascaded to a chapel train. A three dimensional orchid of lace held her bouffant veil, and she carried a Bible arrangement of white orchids and carnations. Her father gave her in marriage.

Miss Constance Fryfogle, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a mint green embroidered taffeta sheath dress with matching overskirt. She carried a cascade arrangement of mint green carnations and a matching rosette with shoulder veil was her headpiece.

Attendants were Mrs. William Hoffman, in a yellow dress, Miss Rosemarie Smith, in lavender, and Miss Rosemary Myers, in blue. Their dresses were made the same as that of Miss Fryfogle.

Tawnie Augustein, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a pink dress made like the attendants and carried a basket of flower petals.

Serving Mr. Augustein as best man, was Gary Hough of Hubbard. Richard Augustein, brother of the bridegroom, William Hoffman, and Howard Rhoads ushered. Acolytes were James Herold and Charles Bevington. Douglas Yoder carried the rings.

The mother of the bride wore a blue taffeta dress with lace over-skirt and Mrs. Augustein a blue chiffon sheath dress. Both had corsages of carnations.

Miss Patty Riley registered the 300 guests who attended the reception in the American Legion Hall at Lake Placentia.

The bride's table was center-

Mrs. Walter W. Greenamyre

Beloit Girl Is Bride Of Walter Greenamyre

The First Methodist at Alliance was the locale of the Saturday wedding uniting in marriage Miss Bonnie Mort, daughter of Mrs. Carl R. Mort Sr., of RD 1, Beloit, and the late Mr. Mort, and Walter W. Greenamyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Greenamyre of RD 4, Salem. Fernery and arrangements of melon and white gladioli adorned the altar as Rev. Alfred Kreke officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony. Mrs. Dale Allison was soloist and Leonard Welsh presided at the organ console.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Carl R. Mort Jr., and wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over taffeta styled with scooped neckline with Swedish lace detail giving a scalloped effect, long sleeves and a bustle back to the skirt which swept to a chapel length train. A halo hat held her elbow-length veil of Spanish net and her flowers were white gladioli and calla lilies.

Mrs. Junior Oliver was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a floor length sheath dress of light blue with overskirt, complemented with matching material rose headpiece with nose veil.

Attendants, Mrs. Gary Greenamyre, Miss Sharon DeMark and Miss Lana Kent, wore dresses like that of the matron of honor. All carried baskets of salmon gladioli.

Flower girl was Debra Lynn Oliver, niece of the bride, in an outfit matching that of the other attendants.

Gary Greenamyre, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Roger Greenamyre, another brother, William Heston and Ernie Bajorkman were ushers.

Mrs. Mort wore a two piece melon colored suit for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Greenamyre a blue dress. Both had corsages of gardenias.

Reception Follows

The reception was held in the church fellowship hall where a four tier cake trimmed with light blue rosebuds centered the white covered bride's table covered with a blue net overskirt. Guests were registered by Mrs. Roger Greenamyre.

From the reception the couple left for a honeymoon to Virginia. For her trip the bride wore a rose sheath dress with matching coat and the corsage from her bouquet. They will live at N. 12th St., RD 1, Beloit.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Greenamyre were hosts at the rehearsal party Friday night.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of West Branch High School. She is also a graduate of Lewis Weinberger and Hill School of Cosmetology at Youngstown and is employed by Ethel's Beauty Salon. Mr. Greenamyre is employed by the E. W. Bliss Co.

hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE
Dear Heloise: My daughter's tennis racket is about 10 years old and the strings were rather loose. Naturally she wanted her racket restrung. This I would not agree to because the strings were perfectly good.

So I had my husband take a punch (looks like a short ice pick and I guess an ice pick could be used if you were careful not to bend it) . . . and stick it under the strings on the rim of the racket where they are woven back and forth.

As he stuck the punch under each string and pulled the string out a little bit, the slack was taken up.

While he held the string up, I put a round toothpick under it. We did this to about 12 or 14 of the strings . . . I could actually feel the strings get tighter. We were careful not to force the strings or pull them too tight. They might break if you do.

Then Hubby used a knife and trimmed the toothpicks so they could look neat. Result? Beautiful tight tennis racket with no cost to us.

SINGING STRINGS.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is an idea I'd like to pass on to your readers: Those plastic-top, clear, cylinder-shaped prescription bottles are wonderful for holding the round bobbins you use on your sewing machine. They keep the thread from coming off and messing up your sewing drawer.

DONNA JOHNSTON.

DEAR HELOISE: Take the scissors and cut off the cuff of an old rubber glove. It makes an excellent jar opener!

Takes up no space in your drawer and fits over every lid. ERNESTINE.

DEAR HELOISE: Instead of using your tablecloths, shower curtains, etc., for picnic tablecloths, has anyone ever considered using a beach towel?

These towels are just a perfect size and one never has creases upsetting the paper plates and on windy days it stays put. All you have to do is throw it in the washing machine along with your other towels.

MRS. A. BACK.

DEAR HELOISE: I noticed in your column that a lady wanted to know how to remove discoloration from her white kitchen appliances and cabinets.

Buy a can of rubbing compound at any automobile store than handles wax, cleaners, etc. (There are several kinds under different brand names). This substance is rubbed on the paint of a car to remove grease and accumulated road haze.

Rub the discolored cabinets, but take it sort of easy as this compound will remove a little of the finish. Then with a soft, clean cloth remove the compound. After that apply a kitchen appliance wax which can be purchased at any supermarket. My yellowed refrigerator and stove look just like new. Ladies, it really works and I have my

Be sure to spot test a hidden place on your appliance FIRST to see if the paint on your stove or refrigerator is applicable to the above treatment. We tried it on four different appliances and it worked beautifully with the particular brands and on finishes we tried.

Deaths and Funerals

William Williamson

LISBON — William Williamson, formerly of West Point, died this morning at the Delp Nursing Home, near Youngstown. He was a World War I veteran and has a brother in Maryland. His wife Edna Williamson died March 25, 1961. The body will be removed to the Henry Funeral Home here. Arrangements are incomplete.

Mrs. Frank Miller

ALLIANCE — Mrs. Lula Miller, 88, of 2765 S. Mahoning Ave., formerly of RD 2, King Rd., North Georgetown, died of complications at her home at 10:05 p.m. Sunday following an illness of 10 years.

She was born Nov. 16, 1876, in Buck Valley, Fulton County, Pa. Her husband, Frank, died in 1930. She had lived in the Alliance vicinity for one month.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Ida Jackson of Alliance, Mrs. Doris Cameron of North Georgetown, Mrs. Alice Bandy of Homeworth and Mrs. Jeanette Holsapple of Tampa, Fla.; three sons, John T. Miller and Gordon Miller of Alliance and Malcolm of Homeworth; 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. One son, John D., died in 1900 and one daughter, Mrs. Olga Kinder died in September, 1963.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Walton-Schrader Funeral Home with Rev. Robert L. Heeter of the Church of the Brethren officiating. Burial will be in Damascus. Friends may call from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

Johnson

so." The chief executive went on to ask a series of rhetorical questions, all of them obviously intended to be answered in the negative:

"Does government subvert our freedom through the social security system?"

"Does government undermine our freedom by bringing electricity to the farm—by controlling floods—or by ending bank failures?"

"Is freedom lessened by efforts to abate pollution in our streams—or by efforts to strengthen competition in the free market?"

"Is freedom diminished by banning the sale of harmful drugs—or by providing school lunches for our children—or by preserving our wilderness areas—or by improving the safety of our airways?"

Johnson saved for last, civil rights, a subject he has mentioned in every address he has made this year.

"Is freedom betrayed when in 1964 we redeem in full the pledge made a century ago by the Emancipation Proclamation?"

The President said that "far from crushing the individual, government at its best liberates him from the enslaving forces of his environment."

Alluding again to the civil rights issue, he said, "This government is fighting to free 20 million Americans whose rights and whose hopes have been damned because they were born with dark skin."

He went on to couple the civil rights issue with his antipoverty program, saying, "We are determined to wage unconditional war against the poverty that keeps one-fifth of our people in economic bondage."

With Patients

Andy Nemeth, 33, of RD 1, Berlin Center, was treated at Alliance City Hospital Saturday at 7:30 p.m. for a sprained back received in a two-car accident on Route 62.

Keith Oswalt, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Oswalt Sr. of RD 2, Beloit was treated Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Alliance hospital for a laceration of the left knee suffered in a fall.

Gordon Milliken, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Milliken of RD 1, Beloit, lacerated his right hand on a razor blade and was treated at the Alliance hospital Saturday at 8:15 p.m.

Rain Threat Cuts Crowd At Concert

Threatening weather held the audience to a small number of persons when the American Legion Quaker Band of Charles Carey Post presented an outdoor concert Sunday evening at Centennial Park.

Next concert will be July 14 at the park.

Mrs. Emmett Tolson

SALINEVILLE — Mrs. Nellie E. Tolson, 82, died of complications at 9:45 a.m. Saturday at Massillon.

Born Oct. 5, 1882, at Salineville, she was the daughter of the late John and Nancy Borden. Her husband, Emmett Tolson, died in 1960. She was a member of the Salineville Church of Christ.

Surviving are two sons, Ray Tolson of Fontana, Calif., and Emmett of Canton; one sister, Mrs. Minnie Morrow of Bergholz; nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Kerr Funeral Home with Rev. Gerald Finnie officiating. Burial will be in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call this evening at the funeral home.

Ellis E. Smith

NEWTON FALLS — Ellis Earle Smith Sr., 81, of Bridge St., died Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at his home.

Born Jan. 10, 1883, the son of Homer E. and Ella Logan Smith, he had been a resident here 27 years, coming from Alliance. He was a member of the Christian Church, IOOF and Masonic lodges.

Mr. Smith is survived by his wife, Blanche Remalia Smith; a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Berletic of Youngstown; a son, Ellis Jr., of East Aurora, N. Y., and a brother, James of Newton Falls.

Services will be Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the James Funeral Home. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday evening.

Uriah Yeager

ELLSWORTH — Uriah Yeager, 91, of Ellsworth Township, died of infirmities at 3:30 a.m. today in the Edgewater Beach Rest Home at Lake Milton following a long illness.

Born in Canfield Township Oct. 22, 1872, the son of William and Polly Probst Yeager, he lived in the area all his life and until his retirement was owner and operator of the Geeburg Dance Hall.

He is survived by a brother, Charles Yeager of Findley, and several nieces and nephews.

Services will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Williams Funeral Home at Canfield in charge of Rev. Charles MacLagan, pastor of the Berlin Methodist Church. Burial will be in Youngstown Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Mrs. Albert McClinton

COLUMBIANA — Mrs. Ida Belle McClinton, 78, of 322 Union St. died of complications at 8:10 a.m. Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Joanna Wilson, following a one-month illness.

Born June 20, 1886, in Harrisville, W. Va., she was the daughter of Alexander and Anna Day White. On Feb. 11, 1920, she married Albert McClinton, who died in 1950. She came to Columbiana 13 years ago from Hanoverton and was a member of the Hanoverton Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Ross Clark of Coraopolis, Pa.; two sisters, Mrs. Wilson, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. Laura Block of Belpre; and three grandchildren.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Seiderly-Belhart Funeral Home in Columbiana, with Rev. George Sweeney of the First Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be in Coraopolis. There will be no calling hours.

High-Speed Chase, Shots Leave 2 Dead

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A midnight exchange of gunfire at speeds up to 85 miles an hour along city streets killed a patrolman and a 14-year-old boy riding in a stolen pickup, police said.

A 15-year-old boy was wounded.

Asst. Police Chief Jim Keith said the two boys, armed with a shotgun and a rifle, started blazing away when the patrolman, William Meadows, 23, gave pursuit.

As Meadows sped across an overpass, a slug smashed through the windshield into his forehead. His cruiser bounced to a halt against guard rails. He died later in a hospital.

State highway patrolmen had heard the radio communications and fell in behind the pickup, riddling the rear with bullets. Shots hit their car, and two other city cruisers that had joined the chase.

Ten miles later, tires punctured, the pickup slammed into a ditch.

Jimmy May was dead of three wounds in the back and neck. Felix Fesmire, 15, identified as the driver, was shot but not seriously wounded in the shoulder.

Keith said officers did not know the boys' ages at the time of the shooting.

He said the pair had left Boys Ranch, a welfare organization which often cares for orphans and delinquents, earlier in the day. Police were investigating the possibility the pair may have robbed a farm family and shot a cowboy.

The Clyde Kohler family reported two boys held them up Sunday night and stole their pickup.

Kohler said the pair cut their telephone wire, took some ammunition and left after saying they had shot a man earlier.

Headquarters of the LIT Ranch reported one of their cowboys did not return from a hunting trip.

neutralist government ordered the protection after consultations with U.S. Embassy officials in the wake of the loss of the two American planes.

In Washington, the State Department said the reconnaissance flights would be continued with U.S. fighter escorts. The armed escorts were ordered Saturday after the loss of Lynn's plane near Ban Ban, 25 miles northeast of the Plaine des Jarres.

The Downing of the two planes created a new sense of urgency among U.S. officials in Washington. President Johnson met at the White House with his top advisers Sunday. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara abruptly cancelled an appearance at Ohio University's commencement exercises.

The Pathet Lao already holds one U.S. pilot, a civilian, Eugene Debruin of Kaukauna, Wis., was captured last September when his Air America cargo plane was shot down. Air America is a private line under government charter.

West Branch Board To Employ Teachers

Ten new teachers are expected to be hired and the resignations of four others accepted at the monthly meeting Tuesday night of the West Branch School District Board of Education.

Action is also to be taken on the employment or re-employment of 10 bus drivers, 14 custodians and 14 cooks. A discussion will be held on salaries of principals and non-certificated personnel, according to executive head Clinton Heacock.

car driven by her husband, Julius, 53, who was going north on Route 164 with the green light. A car in which Giannelli was a passenger, operated by William E. Brick, 18, of Magnolia, "crashed" the red light, striking the side of Kish's vehicle. Brick was cited for failing to obey a traffic signal.

Miss Joanne E. Thompson, 17, of 110 1/2 Railroad St., Columbiana, was cited for failing to yield the right of way after a two-car mishap at 6:40 p.m. on County Rd. 420, a half-mile south of Columbiana.

She was going west on Township Rd. 885 (Hatcher Rd.) when she ignored a stop sign and drove into the path of a northbound auto operated by Steve Stepanich, 51, of RD 2, Columbiana. Neither was hurt.

Cyclist Strikes Auto

An East Liverpool motorcyclist was injured when his vehicle struck the side of a car that turned in front of him Saturday at 8:35 p.m. on County Rd. 430, about two miles east of Route 170 near Calcutta.

Taken to the Liverpool Hospital with a broken wrist and cuts on the right leg was Larry L. Virden, 29, driver of the cycle. The motorist, Willard Adkins, 42, of Smiths Ferry, Pa., was treated for temple abrasions. Virden is listed as fairly good.

The Patrol said Adkins was going west on County Rd. 430 when he turned left in front of Virden's eastbound cycle. The Pennsylvanian was cited for making an improper turn.

Robert K. Hall, 24, of East Liverpool was unhurt but was cited for driving too fast for conditions after he overturned his car in a ditch Saturday at 9:45 p.m. on Township Rd. 928, a half-mile southwest of Route 267, northwest of East Liverpool.

cause of his May 5 preferential primary victory there.

New York's Republican state committee meets Thursday and is expected to name 10 at-large delegates favorable to Rockefeller to go with the 76 district delegates he won in last week's primary. The New York governor also picked up five votes Sunday from the Puerto Rican delegation.

Goldwater is expected to face rough sledding in his attempts to muster support at the Minnesota convention beginning Thursday, the Maryland convention Friday and the Connecticut convention Friday and Saturday. At stake are 46 votes.

But Goldwater is viewed by political leaders in Missouri, Utah, New Mexico, Idaho and Virginia as the likely winner of most of their 58 votes to be decided in conventions Friday and Saturday.

There are other matters to be settled at state conventions this week.

Indiana — Republicans will nominate a Senate candidate from a field of three and a gubernatorial candidate from a field of seven. Two congressmen are in the running—Rep. Donald C. Bruce for the Senate and Rep. William G. Bray for governor. Democrats, meeting Thursday and Friday, are expected to renominate Sen. Vance Hartke for a second term and choose a gubernatorial nominee from among five candidates.

Utah—Republicans will either endorse or nominate candidates for Senate, House and governor. Under a new state law, the top two men at the convention go on the August primary ballot unless one of them gets an endorsement by 80 per cent of the state convention delegates.

Goldwater reiterated that if anybody challenges him seriously for the nomination, he expects it to be former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon was invited, along with Goldwater, to be a conference guest for Eisenhower's address and would attend any leadership meeting.

Rockefeller told a news conference, "Anything can happen between now and the convention but it is very unlikely that any candidate could defeat Goldwater."

"Until I see a better candidate who has some solid support I shall continue to be a candidate," he said.

Bids On New Lisbon Post Office Opened

LISBON — Dan Fashera of Steubenville was the lowest of five bidders for construction of the new post office to be built on W. Lincoln Way here.

Carl M. Turk Enterprises, Lisbon RD 5, was the only Columbiana County bidder at the Friday afternoon session in the main post office at Cleveland. Turk jotted down the following figures as the bids were opened:

Fashera, $6,966 per year for the basic 10-year lease and for each year of the 4 five-year renewal periods.

Fred Bachara and Irvin Thomas, Youngstown, $7,700 per year for basic lease; $7,700, first five years; $7,774, second five; $7,500, third five, and $7,400, fourth five.

Charles Shultz, Parma, $8,500 per year for entire period.

Marsha Burdman, Youngstown, $8,760 per year for entire period.

Turk Enterprises $11,515 per year for the basic lease, $11,500 per year for first five years; $11,000 for second; and $10,000 per year for the third and fourth renewals.

The Post Office Department will only give a 10-year contract with the possibility of four, five-year renewals.

Awarding of the contract will come from the Post Office Department at a later date.

Warning

and to repudiate some of his ideas, such as making Social Security voluntary.

After a day in which GOP moderates flailed away at Goldwater, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon summed it up as "an exercise in sheer futility." He said he thinks Goldwater's nomination is certain.

Goldwater said in Chester, Pa., where he accepted an honorary degree from Pennsylvania Military College, that he would be glad to talk to Scranton and other leaders about the issues.

"I think I can safely say that I can run on a platform that would contain the civil rights bill that passes the Congress," said Goldwater. "I can assure you it won't be the one that is before us now."

He added that he thinks less than 1 per cent of the Republicans favor the public accommodations section of the bill.

Romney told a news conference Goldwater's views do not "square with the principles for which the Republican party stands on the basis of its past record and heritage."

If Goldwater doesn't clarify them to his satisfaction, the Michigan governor said, "I will do everything in my power to keep him from becoming the party's presidential candidate."

Goldwater has "no popular support in Michigan," said Romney.

Goldwater told a news conference in Chester he expects to be the nominee, but that his critics conceivably could unite and deny him the nomination.

"I won't be confident of it until they've counted the roll call," he said.

Tabulations indicated that Goldwater will push close to 600 publicly committed delegates this week.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., after meeting with Republican governors to discuss general election campaign plans, predicted Goldwater would fall 80 to 100 votes shy on the first convention ballot of the 655 votes needed for nomination.

Goldwater reiterated that if anybody challenges him seriously for the nomination, he expects it to be former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon was invited, along with Goldwater, to be a conference guest for Eisenhower's address and would attend any leadership meeting.

Rockefeller told a news conference, "Anything can happen between now and the convention but it is very unlikely that any candidate could defeat Goldwater."

"Until I see a better candidate who has some solid support I shall continue to be a candidate," he said.

worth Ave. Two alternates were named, Lois Whinnery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Whinnery of Whinnery Rd., and Donald Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver A. Davis of Idaho Ave.

Destinations and majors of other scholarship winners and alternates are: Stratton, Ohio State University, pre-medicine or engineering; Miss Schmid, St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., mathematics and English; Miss Schrom, Wittenberg University, Springfield, English (education); Miss Papic, Mount St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing, Cincinnati; Miss Whinnery, Riverside White Cross School of Nursing, Columbus; and Davis, Youngstown University, mathematics.

The winners were selected from among 21 applicants who were carefully screened by the scholarship committee. They are the 139th to 144th students granted scholarship money since 1908.

'This Is Your Life,' Laura

Mrs. Whinnery, senior clerk in the city water office, was given a red "This Is Your Life" scrapbook of early and more recent photos of herself and family with amusing captions and a silver charm bracelet with symbols of life stages and names of her four children. Dr. R. J. McConor, who served as toastmaster, made the presentations.

Ford Joseph Jr., outgoing association president, said his executive group chose Mrs. Whinnery for her outstanding contributions to the school as long-time historian and her service to the community of Salem.

Her identity was revealed by her children, who standing outside the banquet hall, gave little episodes about "Mom" in their lives. The children are Police Lt. Dick Whinnery, Mrs. Glenn Pool, Mrs. Martha Herman and Mrs. Leah Glaeser.

Mrs. Whinnery, a native of Alaska, W. Va. (now Fort Ashby) considers her life a lucky one, despite her choice of a birthday date—Friday the 13th, 1911.

An alumnus of the Class of 1930 and vice president of her class three years, she married her childhood sweetheart, Glenn Whinnery.

Active in community affairs, Laura Mae is past president of the Elks Auxiliary and is currently president of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist Church, president of the Women's Commercial Bowling League and is secretary of the Elks Auxiliary.

She helped organize the Elks' drill team and has been a member of the Scholarship Committee of the Alumni Association for three years. She was also a Girl Scout leader 15 years.

Alumni Assn. Officers New officers of the association for 1964-65 were introduced. They are Dr. Willard Stamp, president; Donald DeJane, first vice president; Charles Ward, second vice president; Miss Rita Joseph, secretary; and Mrs. Jackie Welsh Hergenrother, treasurer.

On the executive committee are Mrs. Betty Jean Barkhoff, Fred E. Cope, Wayne T. Darling, Charles Jones, Ford Joseph Jr., Miss Helen Kaley, Mrs. Ruth Schmidt Klein, Mrs. Matilda Linder Moore, Edwin Probert and Jack Smith.

Judge Sharp read letters of appreciation from last year's scholarship winners, Darryl Everett and Kay Kooztz.

Gift From Class of '64 Class president Lee Schnell announced the class' cash gift of $300 to the scholarship fund.

E. S. Kerr, retired superintendent of schools, announced a proposal to mount the old copper-tin school bell now in the basement at Fourth St. School, on a tower extending above the elevator shaft at the Senior High School. The bell formerly was used to call pupils to classes when the old building was the high school, but it has been muted for many years.

Toastmaster McConor suggested the possibility of using the bell, renowned for its powerful ring, as a victory gong after football victories.

Class of '14 Honored

The Class of 1914 was given special recognition with eight of its members present. They were: Judge Sharp, Marguerite Conser Whinnery, Susan B. Deming, Alta Whinnery Peterson, Flora Crossley Wagner, Mary McMurray Griffin, Mary Camp Coffee and Holland W. Cameron.

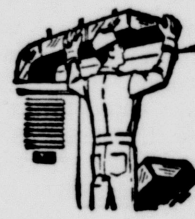

Other members of that honored class of 50 years ago and still living are George Balauri, Tom Boone of Hartford, Conn., Ruth Bullard Welsh of Port Charlotte, Fla., Mary Jane Camp Coffee of RD 2, Edith Gross Cook of Warren, Calvin S. Harris of Tulare, Calif., Archie Holland of Washingtonville Rd., Ralph Huston of RD 3, Clement Jonsson of Detroit, Helen Whinnery Santee of Damascus, Marie Murphy Kennedy of Pittsburgh, Esther Rollins Yates of 245 Highland Ave.

Murray Scott, Mary Silver Brian, 621 N. Union Ave., Helen Simpson Barber of San Diego, Kenneth Smith, Vincent Smith of Portsmouth, Marie Swenningsson Reinsteiner of Lowell, O., Mildred Terry Fisher of Cleveland, Miriam Thumm Weddingham of Jamestown, N. Y., Lucy Walton Williams of Whittier, Calif., Alice Carey Hauser of Denver, Frances Filler Fredericks of Williamsburg, Va., Esther Foltz Baldwin of Cleveland Heights and Pearl Graber Holloway of Pomona, Calif.

Ten members of the class who have died are Hughson Case, Donald Connors, Elsie Allen Gridley, A. Earl Beardmore, Fred Burchfield, Leeta Gibson, Leroy Jewel, Charles Kennedy, Esther White Johns, Beatrice Maguire.

Mrs. Whinnery prepared a tiny, decorated booklet with all the class members' names and addresses for presentation to the group.

YOU PROVIDE YOUR FAMILY WITH FOOD, CLOTHING AND SHELTER. BUT DO YOU PROVIDE...

THE FOURTH NECESSITY?

The Fourth Necessity—enough life insurance—makes the basic necessities, food, clothing and shelter secure for your family.

But four out of five fathers do not provide enough insurance for their families. Do you? If not, you probably don't know how little the Fourth Necessity costs.

For example, for a man of 28 with one child now only five, $25 a month could mean the following: if he dies tomorrow, not only will his policy pay a lump sum of $10,000—but it will guarantee his wife $197 a month until the child is 18.

But chances are he'll live—so he can enjoy a substantial retirement income instead.

You can find out where you stand through Metropolitan's Family Security Check-Up. With my specially designed forms it takes only a short time to add up what you have and compare it with what you need. There is no obligation, except to those you love.

DOLPHIN ROUNDUP

Annual roundup of dolphins in Nago, Okinawa, is a project for whole town.

An Okinawan wrestles with a giant dolphin he managed to lasso by its tail.

Children get a kick out of the feverish activity of the roundup at the beach.

WHENEVER cattlemen talk about roundups, the men who hunt dolphins and whales just laugh indulgently. At Okinawa, for example, the traditional dolphin roundup involves not only the fishermen, but farmers, office workers, store owners and students—everyone from miles around. They hurry to the beach with harpoons, hoes, ropes, sickles and any other kind of weapon. A fleet of canoes, led by big bonito-fishing boats, surrounds the dolphins and herds the sea creatures toward the beach. In the roundup, more than 200 dolphins out of 1,000 were caught in the furious struggle. Canoes capsize and some hunters without boats wade into the water to get a crack at the frightened dolphins.

Men of Nago begin to butcher the dolphin and sell it.

Tribe Wins Opener 3-2 In 15 Innings, Loses 2nd

Chance Belts 2 Home Runs

Indians Start Series With Angels Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie Bob Chance, a big, strong boy who's been swinging a mighty hot bat lately, has won himself a regular spot in the Cleveland Indians' lineup.

"He'll be at first base against left-handed pitchers and in the outfield against right-handers," Tribe manager George Strickland announced Sunday. Cleveland won the opener 3-2 in 15 innings but dropped the nightcap to Washington 6-3.

"We need Chance's bat in the lineup, especially right now," Strickland continued. "He's not an accomplished outfielder yet, but he's got a lot of determination and he's improving every day."

Chance rapped two home runs and two singles against the Senators, raising his average to .433. He has 21 hits in 48 at bats, including five homers.

"I feel pretty much at home either place," said the 6-foot-3 slugger who won the Eastern League batting title last season.

Chance, who will be 24 next month, showed up fat and happy at spring training. Indians' coaches ran him and ran him and put him on a special diet. Down to 215 pounds from 238, he looks fit now and is built like a marble statue.

He still looks awkward when playing the outfield but he seems right at home at the plate.

"I like to hit," said the muscle man from Jersey City, N.J. "No, left handers never bother me too much. I enjoy getting up there and swinging."

It probably was Chance's pinch-hitting that earned him a spot on the Indians' roster. In his first nine appearances as a pinch batter, he hit two homers, a double, a single and drew one walk.

The Tribe won Sunday's opener on Al Smith's single. Leon Wagner led off with a walk and reached third on a sacrifice and a throwing error by Washington third baseman John Kennedy. Smith followed with a single off reliever Jim Duckworth (1-2), the loser.

Chance hit his fourth and fifth roundtrippers of the season with none aboard in the second and seventh to give Sam McDowell a 2-0 lead, which he held until Washington tied it up in the eighth.

Pedro Ramos (3-4), one of four Tribe hurlers in the opener, was the winner. Gary Bell, making his second start of the season, was the loser in the finale. His record is now 3-2.

Catcher John Romano drove in two of the Indians' runs in the nightcap, singling home Wagner in the fourth and homering in the eighth. The Tribe got another run in the fifth on Max Alvis' single, Larry Brown's double, a walk and Vic Davalillo's sacrifice fly.

Cleveland opens a five-game series tonight against Los Angeles with Sonny Siebert (1-1) facing the Angels' Barry Lattman (2-4).

Stephens' Key Pinch-Hit Gives White Sox Doubleheader Sweep

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Gene Stephens, who made a living in the '50s as Ted Williams' caddy in the Boston Red Sox outfield, earns his major league paycheck these days with a set of clubs.

Stephens' pinch single in the eighth inning drove in the winning run Sunday as Chicago nipped Detroit 2-1 and completed a doubleheader sweep. There was a time when all Stephens needed to earn his keep in the big time was a ready glove. That was in the twilight of Williams' fabulous American League career. The Splendid Splitter would start in left field, do his damage at the plate, and then let Stephens handle the fielding for the last few innings.

But when Williams retired in 1960, Stephens had to come up with something more than a five-fingered piece of leather to keep his job. It took him three years and a trip to the minors but he appears to have done it.

Stephens drifted to Baltimore and Kansas City and then to Indianapolis in 1963 when, all of a sudden, he discovered his bat. A .304 average with 17 homers earned him a look with the White Sox at the tailend of last season and he impressed with seven for 18 and a .389 average.

Chicago Manager Al Lopez remembered Stephens' bat in the eighth inning of Sunday's second game against Detroit. The White Sox had taken the opener 8-3 but were trailing 1-0 against Hank Aguirre in the nightcap.

Floyd Robinson led off the eighth and reached on Jake Wood's error. A balk and a sacrifice moved Robinson to third and he scored on Ron Hansen's single. Don Buford's single put the winning run in scoring position and Lopez called for Stephens.

The veteran outfielder singled to left, delivering Hansen with the winning run and completing the sweep for the Chisox.

The double victory coupled with Minnesota's 5-2 victory over Baltimore put the White Sox in first place, a half-game in front of the Orioles. Elsewhere in the AL, New York whacked Los Angeles 9-3, Boston and Kansas City split with the Red Sox winning the first 9-5 and the A's taking the second 8-6, and Cleveland split a pair with Washington, winning the first 3-2 in 15 innings and losing the nightcap 6-3.

Stephens' hit made a winner of Joel Horlen, who fired a strong three-hitter, allowing just one hit after the first inning and retiring 20 of the last 21 batters he faced.

Dave Nicholson crashed a three-run homer and Pete Ward delivered a clutch single to win the opener. The Tigers had come back to tie it after Nicholson's eighth homer of the season put the Sox on top. A hit batsman and singles by Robinson and Ward pushed the lead run across in the sixth.

Whitey Ford won his seventh straight for the Yankees with home run support from Tommy Tresh and Elston Howard. Ken McBride lost it for the Angels, his 10th setback in 11 decisions. Ford hasn't lost and McBride hasn't won since Opening Day.

The Red Sox and A's had a home run duel with 11 balls soaring into Municipal Stadium's seats. Frank Malzone and Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs apiece in Boston's first game victory. Both homered and Yastrzemski had another circuit in the second game. Dick Williams homered twice for Boston in the second game and Jim Gentile drove in five runs with two homers for the A's in the nightcap.

The A's scored all their runs in the opener on homers with Ed Charles and Bill Bryan each connecting with a man on and pitcher Orlando Pena adding a bases empty shot. Tony Conigliaro had a two-run homer for the Red Sox.

The Twins halted rookie Wally Bunker's winning streak at six games and dropped the Orioles into second place. Baltimore grabbed a quick 2-0 lead but Harmon Killebrew's 15th homer evened things in the second. Tony Oliva and pitcher Camillo Pascual, who won his eighth, drive in runs to give Minnesota the lead and Bernie Allen's fifth homer closed the scoring.

Bob Chance clubbed two homers for Cleveland but the Indians struggled into the 15th before winning the first game against Washington. Al Smith singled Leon Wagner home to break it up after a walk and a throwing error had put the winning run on third.

Chuck Hinton homered and added two other hits as Washington came back to take the nightcap. Al Koch won it, scattering eight hits including John Romano's seventh homer.

Don Drysdale pitched and batted the Dodgers over the Mets in the opener, allowing six hits and driving in two runs with a homer in the third and a sacrifice bunt in the four-run ninth. He also singled. Charlie Smith homered for the Mets. Jim Hickman's home run in the fifth gave the Mets a 1-1 tie in the nightcap.

When Hill Rise finished second in the Kentucky Derby it snapped an eight straight streak that began last November.

Lema's Birdie On 18th Nips Souchak In Golf Tournament

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—"I saw my wife standing there in the rain on the 18th, and I said, Honey, I sure made this thing interesting, didn't I?"

You might say that.

There was Tony Lema, going down in flames in the final round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Tournament Sunday. First he held a seven-stroke lead over Mike Souchak with 13 holes to play, and suddenly he was one stroke behind with four to go.

It was building up to be the biggest collapse since the stock market in 1929.

Lema redeemed his pledge to treat the press to champagne when he rapped in a pressure eight-foot putt on the 18th hole for his second straight birdie, and the $20,000 top prize.

The birdie four gave him a final round of 71, one-under par for the short Westchester course and a 72-hole total of 276.

Souchak, who started off as if he was going to have to skip a couple of holes to break 100, finished with 69 for 277 and $12,000 for second place.

Ken Venturi, who had to telephone and ask for an invitation to play in the Thunderbird, and portly Billy Casper finished at 279. Chi Chi Rodriguez and Phil Rodgers were 280.

Lema birdied the third, and Souchak made a bogey and now it was seven.

On the short 6th hole, Souchak hit his tee shot over the green into a budding jungle, and it looked as if the tournament was over. But Big Mike, the 37-year-old ex-Duke football player, chipped into the cup for a birdie.

Lema hit a trap on the eighth, and on the ninth he had to crawl under a spreading fir tree and scoop the ball out on his hands and knees.

Now the lead was three strokes.

Lema got a birdie at 12, and Souchak made an eagle. Two strokes.

On the par three 14th, Souchak put his tee shot within four feet and Lema struck his in the crowd. "It was a terrible shot," Lema said. "And the chip was bad, and then I three-putted."

Now Souchak was ahead by one stroke, and Lema showed that he is made of stern stuff. Champagne Tony flipped his second shot to within two feet on the 17th, got his birdie and tied it up.

On the 18th, a par five, Lema hit his third eight feet away and Souchak was 2 feet from the pin. Mike missed, and Tony rapped it home.

Pittsburgh Dog Gets Top Honor 1st Time

Doberman Pinscher Wins 'Best Of Show'

Jernoll's Merlin, a Doberman pinscher, won "best of show" in the Columbiana County Kennel Club all-breed dog show and obedience trial at the Saxon Country Club here Saturday.

It was the first time that the dog, owned by Dolores and Floyd Elier of Glenmawr, Pittsburgh, Pa., had walked off with the top honors in any show.

After winning in best of breed competition, the Doberman earned a spot in the finals by taking first in working group division.

Hopewood's Flashlight, an ascob (cocker) spaniel, was best in the sporting group. The dog was from Hopewood Kennels of Cleveland.

IN THE HOUND GROUP, a basset, Ali Baba, took top honors. Mrs. Philip Hirstein of West Bend, Wis., is the owner of the dog, which was handled by Jerry Rigen.

The top Terrier group winner in the show was a kerry blue terrier Marberlane's Silver Charm. The dog is owned and handled by Mr. and Mrs. George J. Connors of Wm. Penn. Pl., Pittsburgh, Pa.

A pekingese, Ch. Ku Jin T'Sun of Chintoi, handled by Rigen, took best of toy group honors. The animal is owned by Edward B. Jenner and Mrs. Elaine Rigen of Libertyville, Ill.

Another Rigen - shown dog, which took best of show here a year ago, was a French bulldog Franchise. This year it was first in non-sporting group. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. West of Livonia, Mich., are owners of the dog.

The show here benefitted the Salem Junior Baseball Leagues. A total of 491 dogs were shown this year.

She was headed east, went left of center through a fence and landed upside down in the creek. She was pulled out of her car by an unknown motorist.

Police listed no injuries or damages, but a wrecker was called to pull the car out of the creek.

She was cited for reckless operation by Chief Leon Zahndt.

Quadrangle Wins Belmont, May Race At Saratoga Next

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Quadrangle, the bubble buster, and his three closest pursuers in last Saturday's $154,600 Belmont Stakes, parted company today with no idea when they'll meet again. It could be in the 1 1/4 miles of the $75,000-added Travers at Saratoga Aug. 22.

Quadrangle, who emphatically halted Northern Dancer's bid for the Triple Crown, won the 1 1/4-mile race by two lengths in 2:28 2/5 to earn $110,850 and pay $15.10 for $2.

Roman Brother was second, four lengths in front of Northern Dancer as the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner faltered after challenging Quadrangle for the lead one-quarter-mile from the finish. Hill Rise, second choice to the heavily backed Dancer, trailed by another one-half length in fourth place.

Elliott Burch, personable trainer of Paul Mellon's Quadrangle, hasn't decided on future plans for the strapping son of Cohoes-Tap Day. But he is leaning strongly towards giving his hard-hitting ace another crack at older horses in the $100,000-added Suburban Handicap over 1 1/4 miles at Aqueduct July 4.

Roman Brother, who was the smallest horse in the race, likely will head for Chicago for three $100,000-added races—the Chicagoan June 27, the Classic Aug. 8 and the American Derby Aug. 29.

Horatio Luro, trainer of Northern Dancer, left for Canada Sunday and stable connections said the horse would be shown off before the home folks in the 1 1/4 miles of the $50,000-added Queens Plate at Woodbine.

E. P. Taylor, owner of the Dancer, is head of the Woodbine track. Northern Dancer then will be given a rest before going after the Travers.

Salem Legion Triumphs 5-3

Tracy Bissell and Hilton Moffett combined their pitching talents to toss a three-hitter as Salem beat Hanoverton 5-3 to open the county American Legion baseball season at Centennial Park Sunday.

The losers got all their hits in the two run first inning, back-to-back singles by Marty Brice and Bill McGranahan, an error, a fielder's choice and another single by Joe Reeves gave Hanoverton a 2-0 margin.

Breaking a 3-3 tie in the fourth, Salem went ahead to stay as Moffett reached base on an error and raced home on a single by Rich Parolntieri.

Bissell, who gave up all the hits to the losers went the first four frames. He struck out six. Moffett then came on in relief and went the final three frames holding the losers to no hits, while fanning six.

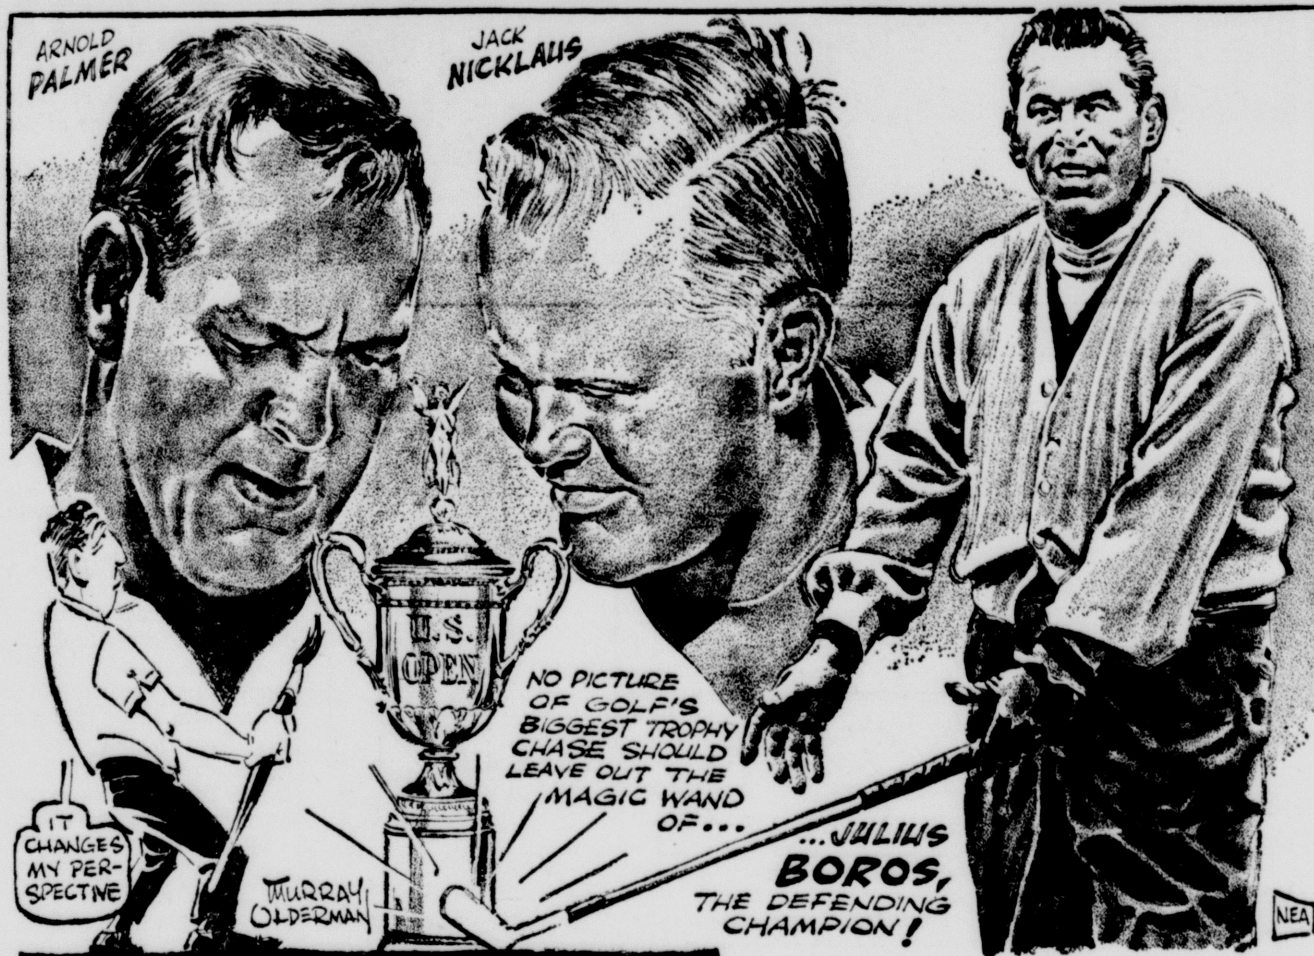

Rich and Ron Parolntieri had two hits apiece to pace Salem.

Quadrangle Wins The Belmont — Quadrangle, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, heads for the finish of the 1 1/4-mile Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct in New York June 6, beating out Roman Brother, left, with Fernando Alvarez up. The favored Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, finished third.

Foyt Escapes 3 Scrapes To Win 100-Mile Event

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A. J. Foyt drove away from three close scrapes, including a fiery crash that left Jim Hurtubise critically burned, to win Sunday's 100-mile big car test but said, "If all auto races are going to be as hairy as this one, I might consider quitting."

Foyt, the winner of the 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis, now has won all four events in the new U.S. Auto Club season. He was first in earlier 100-milers at Trenton, N.J., and Phoenix, Ariz.

In Sunday's race, watched by a record crowd of 36,285 at the Wisconsin State Fairgrounds, Foyt finished a 1 1/2 miles ahead of Len Sutton of Portland, Ore.

Foyt, from Houston, Tex., drove an Offenhauser powered car with the engine mounted in front.

All of the first 10 cars were powered by Offenhausers and all had the engines in front except for the rear-mounted driven by Sutton and ninth-place Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex.

All 22 starters used an alcohol fuel, spurning the gasoline that figured in the fiery crash that killed two drivers in the Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

One was a 51-st lap tangle that sent Hurtubise's car into the air to crash in flames against a concrete retaining wall.

Rodger Ward of Indianapolis, who had been leading in a rear-mounted, Ford engine car, appeared to slide coming out of a turn and was forced to quit the race by clutch trouble. Foyt close behind braked but there was no place for the third-place Hurtubise to go.

The left front wheel of Hurtubise's car climbed over the right rear wheel of Foyt's racer. The fire under Hurtubise's car was quickly extinguished and he was pulled out.

Hurtubise suffered first and second degree burns over 40 per cent of his body, including his hands, arms, legs and back. A spokesman for West Allis Memorial Hospital said he was in "critical condition, but doing fine."

The hospital said he would be flown today to the burn center at the U.S. Army Brooke Medical Center at San Antonio.

A spectator hit by a piece of debris was cut on the head but in satisfactory condition at a hospital.

Third place went to Bud Tinglestad of Dayton, Ohio, and Troy Ruttman of Dearborn, Mich., was fourth. Only nine cars finished.

Lucas Says European Cage Players Better

CINCINNATI (AP) — European basketball players are getting better, but in Jerry Lucas' opinion they are still no match for American professionals.

The former Ohio State University All-American returned last weekend from a 5 1/2 week tour of Europe and North Africa with a team of American professionals. The tour was sponsored by the U. S. State Department and the Boston Celtics' Red Auerbach served as coach.

"We ran into some pretty darned good players, the Cincinnati Royals' star rookie said.

"Their offense and shooting ability has improved. They're still weak on defense, but they seem to shoot much more like Americans than in the past. I don't think I saw a two-handed set shot on the whole trip. They are shooting mostly jumpers and they shoot on the move a great deal more than in the past."

Gemberling, Walters Win At Canfield

Roy Gemberling, stock car racing star from Kent, Ohio, and Gary Walters, a amateur point leader from Niles, chalked up their first victories of the season at Canfield Speedway Saturday night.

Gemberling, who returned to Canfield competition three weeks ago, piloted his 1956 Ford to the late model 25-lap triumph. Gemberling started in the pole and led for 11 laps before giving way to Johnny Martin of Warren. Gemberling forged to the front again on the 20th lap and went on to win. Martin was second and Bill Forney of Youngstown beat out Jim Bickelstaff of Mineral Ridge for third spot.

Walters also started on the pole and through the last 10 laps battled Bud Comm of Boardman. Walters won in a near photo finish.

Salem Driver Place

Four Salem men placed during the program. "Rabbi" Hippley, driving his car in the late model division, finished fifth in the consolation.

In the amateur bracket, Pinky Pincenbe was fifth in the fifth heat, and Jim Slocum came in third, and Dick Tullis fifth in the consolation.

Event winners in the late model races were Bob James, of Youngstown, first heat; Ron Hegedus of Brookfield, second heat, Dick Lantz of Newton Falls, third heat; Chuck Dorsey of Warren, pursuit; and Bob Greer of Hubbard, consolation.

Chuck Willoughby of Youngstown won the first heat on the amateur card. He was followed by Ray Thomas of Austintown, second; Gene Friend of Girard, third heat; Norm Johnson of Niles, fourth heat; Paul Eisenwein of Rogers, fifth heat; Thomas, first consolation; and Bill Benzenhoefer of Youngstown, second consolation.

Jarrett Wins Dixie 400 Stock Car Race

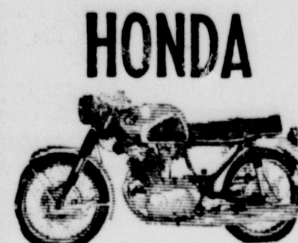

ATLANTA (AP)—Ned Jarrett, the quiet man with the heavy foot, gives all the credit for his victory in the $56,000 Dixie 400 stock car race to his pit crew.

"They did an amazing job," Jarrett said after winning the race in his new 1964 Ford. "I didn't have a long pit stop all afternoon, and I know that made the big difference."

Jarrett, of Camden, S.C., took the lead in the 400-mile event Sunday for the first time on the 193rd lap and led for all but seven of the remaining 74 laps. He averaged a slow 112.5 miles per hour for the race.

Jarrett hit the finish about one half mile, or 12 seconds, ahead of Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., who was driving a 1964 Plymouth. Paul Goldsmith, Mexico City, driving a 1964 Plymouth, was third. The pace in this year's race was the slowest in the history of the 400 as the caution flag was up for a total of 58 laps. Fifty-six of the first 89 laps were under the flag as a result of two minor mishaps.

Preparing To Paint Now Allows Action Time Later

Maybe you're planning to paint in the fall. Perhaps you are saving up some of your vacation time to do the job. You're hoping for just the right weather when you have the time available.

But will you be ready for painting when the time comes? Or will you be busy preparing to do the job while precious time slips away?

Preparation doesn't need huge chunks of time. There are things you can do for an hour or two in the evening or during some time on a weekend.

If paint is beginning to blister and peel, there's little doubt that the house needs painting. A putty knife and a scraper will do the biggest part of the work.

Use the putty knife to lift off the sections of paint that are most loose and ready to fall off. For the tougher spots, use the scraper. Once the loose paint is off, sand the edges of the spot so that they won't show through the new paint.

Using Blowtorch

You may find areas in which the paint is badly cracked but not loose enough for scraping. The only way to do a complete job is to remove the paint entirely. One method is to use a blow torch to soften the paint. This works, but it is dangerous if precautions are not taken. Remember that you are using the flame only to soften the paint, not burn it off. Keep the flame at angles to the surface and just ahead of the scraper. Keep water or a fire extinguisher handy. A hose attached to an outside faucet and ready to use is a wise precaution.

Chemical paint removers are slower but safer. They are also more expensive and cannot be used on large vertical surfaces.

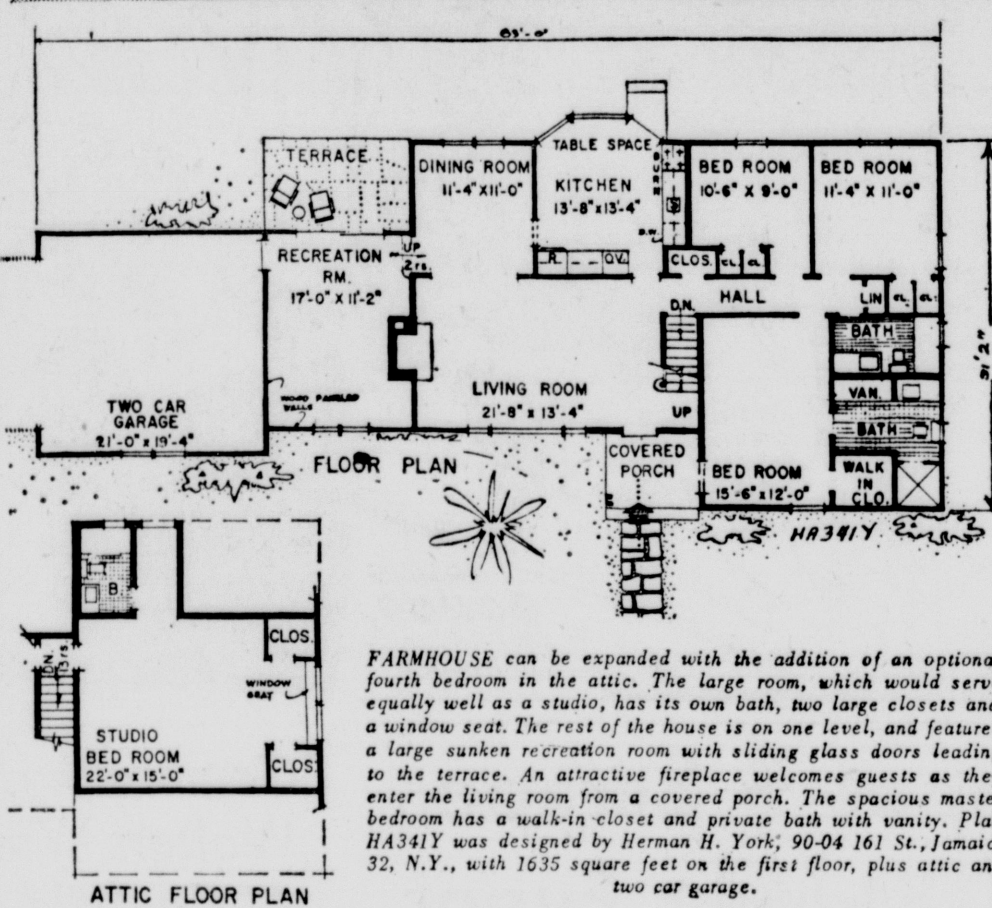

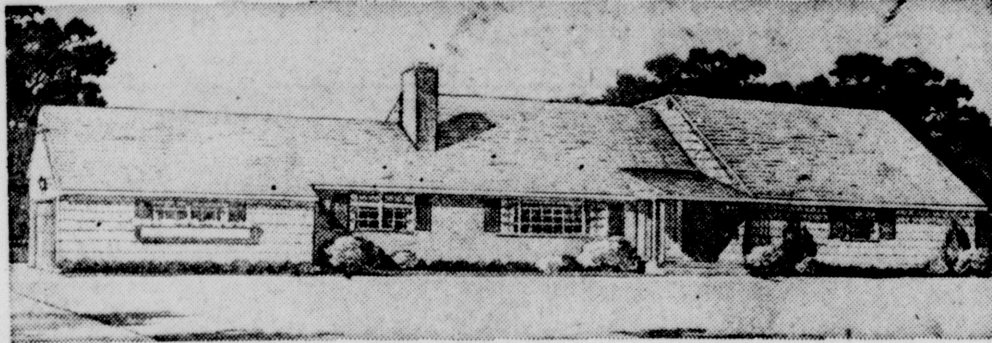

Use a wire brush for cleaning up metal work. Cut down the gloss on trimmed surfaces such as window sills by rubbing down with steel wool.

Minor Repairs

Take care of minor repairs now. Loose boards should be nailed down. Replace cracked or broken window panes. Putty windows where the old putty is loose or broken.

Calc around doors and windows and joints where two surfaces meet. Seal cracks and crevices. Moisture that enters at these points causes your paint to blister and peel.

Have an adequate supply of paint, thinner, cleaning rags before you start.

FARMHOUSE can be expanded with the addition of an optional fourth bedroom in the attic. The large room, which would serve equally well as a studio, has its own bath, two large closets and a window seat. The rest of the house is on one level, and features a large sunken recreation room with sliding glass doors leading to the terrace. An attractive fireplace welcomes guests as they enter the living room from a covered porch. The spacious master bedroom has a walk-in closet and private bath with vanity. Plan HA341Y was designed by Herman H. York, 90-04 161 St. Jamaica 32, N.Y., with 1635 square feet on the first floor, plus attic and two car garage.

Here Are New Products Of Interest to Handymen

WHAT'S NEW on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A man-made material that looks and cuts like wood, but is incombustible, does not conduct electricity and is not affected by wood and rot. Production capacity presently limits its use as siding to the southern part of the country, but it soon will be available nationally and later will be made for many other home uses as well as for siding.

CLAIM — That this material, a combination of processed wood, asbestos fibers and cement, is preshrunk and primed before it leaves the factory, can be painted with latex or oil-based paints, can be nailed with standard siding nails without predrilling holes and will not split because it has no grain or knots.

THE PRODUCT — A new exterior latex paint designed to do away with the priming and etching of bare galvanized gutters, downspouts and eaves.

CLAIM — That the painting of bare galvanized materials can be completed in one day, since the latex acts as its own primer and can be recoated within an hour; that the new paint acts equally well on aluminum; and that the only preparation necessary is to be certain that any protective layer of oil put on the galvanized steel or aluminum by the manufacturer is thoroughly wiped off.

THE PRODUCT — A four-way wiring tool that features a bolt slicer.

CLAIM — That this tool, which bears some resemblance to a pair of pliers, combines a wire cutter, a wire stripper, a terminal crimper and a bolt slicer; that the wire cutter is situated near the tip, making it easy to cut wire in cramped quarters; that a bolt is screwed into the proper-size hole to the desired length, after which only a moderate amount of hand pressure is applied, producing a clean cut without the usual burrs.

THE PRODUCT — A varnish containing special epoxy resins which give it an unusually durable surface.

CLAIM — That this varnish has a stretching ingredient which seals out dirt and moisture while protecting it against the heaviest traffic and abrasive abuse; that it will not be harmed by soaps, alcohols, fruit juices or even boiling liquids; that it prevents water spotting and rings; and that it dries in two hours.

But people are swayed in their purchases by little things. A $15,000 deal may go awry because the seller neglected to spend a few dollars on a simple repair.

When a professional — a speculator, if you will — buys a house for resale, the first thing he does is to put it in shape. It is curious to note, however, that many other persons begin to let things slide as soon as they make up their minds they'll be moving soon.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: We expect to have a garbage disposer in soon. Is it necessary to use a grease trap along the disposer?

ANSWER: Your installation man will, of course, make all decisions on what can and what cannot be used with the garbage disposer. Individual problems sometimes must be handled differently than in ordinary situations. In this particular case, a grease trap is not used with a disposer. In fact, if you already have a grease trap in your sink, the baffle will have to be removed to prevent food waste particles from collecting in the trap and clogging the drain system.

QUESTION: We have a very old house with oak floors. The floors are still in good condition but the thresholds between each pair of rooms are worn and badly in need of replacement. Is this something we can fix ourselves?

ANSWER: Yes, you can replace the thresholds without professional help if you are fairly handy. You can do it either by getting ready-made thresholds or making your own from material sold especially for this purpose. Whatever problem you have will be in the matter of proper fit. To insure this fit, remove each old threshold in one piece. Do this by lightly hammering a chisel under each end of the threshold. This will pull up the nails. Now hammer the threshold back in place, leaving the nails sticking up. Remove each nail and then take out the threshold. When using the chisel, some of the nails may not pop up and may remain in place. In that case, carefully remove the threshold, then pull out the stubborn nails.

In re-nailing the new threshold, your job will be easier — and there will be less chance of splitting the wood — if you drill pilot holes for the nails. Use finishing nails, sink them below the surface and fill the indentations with wood putty or plastic wood.

Wise Homeowner Will Heed Important Rule: Fix It Now

One good rule of thumb to observe at this time of year is: Fix it now.

That applied to anything in the home that is in disrepair from furnishings to ceilings. And punctiliousness is especially important if the house is new and you don't know what to expect. Vigilance should be the password for the lady of the house who is more likely to observe little things that go awry during the day.

A barely discernable crack in the ceiling can become a queen-size headache later, a tipoff of a real leak in the roofing.

A cellar that is moist, damp or wet now, may be a major problem during storms. Often little more is required for dryness than having gutter and leader drains redirected so that water from these systems does not form puddles near the house, draining into the basement. There are other reasons for checking basement leaks.

CHECK ROOF AND SHINGLES, not merely for loose shingles, but those that are worn and stained. It will be cheaper to patch before a real emergency occurs.

The roof over a screened-in porch often is the source of leaks, particularly if added after the house was finished. Observe whether the roof and house meet tightly or whether you can see a crack of light at this line. A leak from this area can damage porch walls and furnishings, and weaken floor boards.

Savings on fuel may be realized by insulating the outside walls of old houses. The cost of a project such as this can pay for itself in one season, especially if the insulation is done by a do-it-yourselfer. If the prospective mess indoors is considered too great, do one wall at a time. If one can afford to do it, the insulation can be "blown in" from the outside and any mess in the house completely eliminated.

IF ONE TOLERATES rain and snow seeping under doors, year after year, using temporary means, blankets, papers and whatnot to keep out wet and cold, this is the season to acquire weatherstripping or other means to offset the problem. The permanent solution to this mess requires less time and expense than the temporary measures employed, and is certainly far more satisfactory in an aesthetic sense.

Small holes between rocks in a fieldstone foundation may permit small animals to enter the cellar and become nuisances as they store their winter fodder or seek warmth. Snakes are often attracted to the warmth of rocks, cement or whatever before winter sets in.

Plan To Sell Your House? Here Are Some Good Tips

Can you sell your house yourself?

Of course you can. Will this save you the real estate brokers commission? Of course it will.

But hold on a minute. It's not that simple. A representative of a real estate office usually can sell your house faster than you can yourself and often get a better price for it. As a third party, he is in a much better position to negotiate when there is a difference of opinion over price, which there usually is. And if he is familiar with the area (a good reason to select a broker or realtor from your own neighborhood), he can weed out the curiosity seekers from the actual potential purchasers.

Incidentally, if you do decide to sell your own house, check on whether your local laws permit the posting of a "for sale" sign. Some don't. Newspaper advertising is the best bet. In composing such ads, stick to the facts people are interested in and avoid flowery phrases.

If you will just remember the things you looked for when you bought the house, you'll know what is important when you get around to selling it. A dingy exterior will discourage many persons from even looking at the interior. Overcrowded closets will give the impression there isn't enough closet space. Fingerprints on the walls make it appear that the occupants are not keeping the children in check. Caked grease on the stove burners indicates carelessness in cleaning chores. And so on. Actually, the house itself may be a solidly built structure which actually is an excellent

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from Theron at the Country Store

On Tuesday the 9th of June at the Methodist Church in Salem there will be a bloodmobile visit.

Recent failures in Columbiana and Salem make this a very important visit.

Since the Red Cross fiscal year runs from July to July this is your last chance to help this year's quota.

It's most important that anyone who can give do so. Not only does this program save the people of this area about 40 dollars each year, it saves lives, maybe it will save yours.

TV-Radio Today

By ALAN GILL
A Mad Scramble for Culture—II
Early last year, a book called "The People Look at Television" proved pretty conclusively that eggheads are four-flushers. The well-educated viewer the book's researches found, are given to complaining of the dearth of educational and informational programs on TV; then, when given the opportunity of watching just such programs, the dirty sneaks will watch Lucy, Palatin or "The Beast With Five Fingers," instead.

Night after night, week after week, the Nielsen audience figures bear out the fact that not only do highbrows not watch high minded television; the middle - and lowbrows don't either. Gosh, there must be someone somewhere out there who watches every "CBS Reports" that comes along and occasionally heaves a nostalgic sigh for the days of "Omnibus." Is culture poison in the living room? Every living room?

A FEW WEEKS AGO, here was David Susskind letting the American TV viewer have it right between the eyes. "I'm sick and tired of television being the whipping boy for the cultural lag in America," he growled. "I think TV is miles ahead of the American appetite for good things." Americans, he said, stayed away from his own "East Side-West Side" and Richard Boone's series of dramas in droves; and the people's lack of interest in public affairs programming has contributed to a cut-back in such documentaries this season. "There is something on TV every single night for the selective viewer to enjoy — and he is not doing it," Susskind concluded.

From the audience researchers, then, to the once-bitten-twice shy producers of quality drama on television, the word seems to be that video culture is about as popular as a bad cold.

And yet, here comes Sylvester L. ("Pat") Weaver and his Subscription Television, Inc., about to take the grand plunge—bringing pay-TV to the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas, preparatory to making it a coast-to-coast enterprise in hopefully millions of homes. This is the largest and boldest pay-television experiment yet.

And Weaver hopes to make it work through the popularity of his programming, which is a general mixture of baseball, movies and culture, the culture ranging from Laurence Olivier's "Uncle Vanya" to "Der Rosenkavalier."

BUT NO SOONER WAS the announcement out of Weaver's head than NBC-TV was spilling the news that it too was negotiating with England's BBC on a coproduction deal. The network was talking specifically of the Olivier - National Theater repertory productions of next season. (The current season has been a smash, with a roaring "Othello" and a lively, touching "St. Joan.") This, at a time when television seems to be tossing out any property that has the look of stern intelligence on its face, there are these sudden confident moves by pay-TV's Weaver and commercial TV's Mort Werner.

Why? Pay-TV, to establish a beachhead, must not only look entertaining (baseball), but it must look important, too (Olivier). I must offer the kind of program that's worth a family's dollar (Who's ready to plunk down 12 and a half or two dollars, bits for "The Patty Duke Show" every Wednesday night?) Perhaps "Uncle Vanya" is not going to get Miss Duke's rating, but it will pull in enough bucks to pay for itself, I'll bet. And the family that feels it is ready for Pa Weaver is also ready for Anton Chekov.

THE COMMERCIAL broadcasters know this, too. And if they are wise men, they will keep one step ahead of Mr. Weaver and offer enough quality drama and high-level public affairs material to forestall the enemy. The networks should know that once they've irreparably lost that minority audience that would tune in on an Olivier or an "Omnibus," they have lost their claim to distinction. ("Omnibus," even David Susskind should remember, went off the air with a few million viewers faithful to the end. So did "Playhouse 90.") I hope pay-TV serves increasingly as a goad to the CBS, NBC and ABC boys. It would be nice to see some good drama come back and an occasional voice of greatness.

A brief postscript: The foregoing sermon does not mean to suggest that "cultural" stuff is by its nature good or that something a bit less elevated is bad. A local New York station put on a BBC production of "Wuthering Heights" the other night, with Claire Bloom as Cathy and Keith Mitchell as Heathcliff. It was crude, clumsy, makeshift and disastrous. But I suppose if we can be tolerant of Lucille Ball on an off-night, we can learn to put up with an under-the-weather Emily Bronte, too.

7:30 — Ch. 3, MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES (Color): Robert Stack, Robert Ryan, Shirley Yamaguchi, Sessue Hayakawa, and Cameron Mitchell in "The House of Bamboo," a fast-moving thriller about an American undercover agent assigned to infiltrate a gang of renegade GIs who have set up a protection racket in postwar Tokyo. (Repeat.)

7:30 — Ch. 5, THE OUTER LIMITS: Peter Breck stars as a Senator who heads up the investigation of a government research center which uses a machine to spy on its employees, in "O. B. I. T." (Repeat.)

8:36 — Ch. 8, LUCY SHOW. Lucy takes up golf so she can see her golf crazy boyfriend (Gary Morton, her real-life husband) on weekends. (Repeat.)

8:30 — Ch. 5, WAGON TRAIN (Color): An Indian war party interrupts the wedding plans of rough-mannered freight line operator Barbara Stanwyck who intends to walk wagonmaster John McIntire down the aisle before the conclusion of "The Kate Crawley Story." (Repeat.)

9 — Ch. 8, DANNY THOMAS SHOW: Kathy's relatives are enthralled when Danny visits them in Ireland. (Repeat.)

9:30 — Ch. 8, ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW: When Deputy Don Knotts discovers he's hung a parking ticket on the Governor's limousine, he firmly refuses to tear it up. But he's shaken when he learns that the Governor has made a trip to Mayberry especially to see him. (Repeat.)

9:30 — Ch. 3, HOLLYWOOD AND THE STARS: Horror classics from "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" to the current monster trend tell the story of "Monsters We've Known and Loved." (Repeat.)

10 — Ch. 8, EAST SIDE-WEST SIDE: Urban renewal threatens the livelihood of guest star Clifton James after he is served with an eviction notice, in "Go Fight City Hall." (Repeat.)

10 — Ch. 3, SING ALONG WITH MITCH (Color): Love letters, travel brochures, postcards from tourists, and a letter from a desert island are the themes for Mitch Miller and his gang. (Repeat.)

10 — Ch. 5, THE BREAKING POINT: Sherree North plays a prison inmate who participates as a substitute mother for an unadoptable child in Dr. Mac's rehabilitation experiment, in "Don't Cry, Baby, Don't Cry." (Repeat.)

Northwest County Court

Judge Luther Donbar in Northwest County Court here collected fines totaling $41,965.55 from criminal and civil cases handled in May.

Total disbursements in May were $1,765.85 with $381.15 to the state treasurer. $465.85 to the county for percentage of highway patrol cases, $742.85 to county for court costs, $65 to the county for constable fines, $9.50 for sheriff's fees, $2 for city police fees and $99.45 or constable fees.

A total of 140 cases were heard in May, 108 of which were criminal and 32 civil.

Summer Dances Set By Leetonia Ruritans

By MRS. HOMER KRIDER

LEETONIA — Summer recreational dances will be held each Friday starting June 12 at Orchard Hill School, sponsored by the Ruritan Club. The dances will be held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. with proceeds to be used for the scholarship fund and other school clubs.

Plans are being made for a band to play once a month. Records will be played on the other evenings.

The Ruritans will meet Tuesday at the Methodist Church in Franklin Square. Rev. Harold B. Winn of the First Friends Church of Salem will be the speaker.

TWO THOUSAND PERSONS attended the Homecoming Friday during which the Colleens Drill Team from St. Patrick's School, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, gave a performance.

Special numbers were given by Jean Nicolette and Patty Bell. Miss Nancy Wolboldt of Canfield, a teacher of the group, and Karen DiRocco and Debbie Wilde of Salem, students of Miss Gyll Floding, baton teacher from Salem.

Members of the Colleens are: Kathy Bell, leader, Jean Nicolette, Patty Bell, Joyce Bell, Marilyn Baulo, Diana Baulo, Jeannette McCabe, Rosemary Fraser, Charlotte Fraser, Mary Ann Fraser, Diane Leone, Michele Perry, Terri Bruderly, Peggy Woods, Lindy Baulo, Debbie Altomare and Mickey Dudick. Mrs. John Perry of Main St. is head instructor.

ATTY. EDWARD Greenamyre will represent the local Kiwanis Club Wednesday at the District Council meeting at Steubenville. R. C. Koons, district governor, will be speaker at the meeting.

Dean Cummings, band director in Leetonia schools, will be attending Eastman School of Music in New York, this summer while Mrs. Cummings works toward her master's degree in piano.

Leetonia - Washingtonville Women's Democrat Club will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Leetonia Sportsmen's Club. Edward Mallory, safety director in Salem, will relate some of his experiences before retiring from the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Robert Kornbau of RD 1, Leetonia, who showed her baking talents by winning three ribbons Thursday in the Homecoming Baking Contest, is the mother of four children, ages seven to 16. She also attends Kent State extension courses at Salem and Canton with two more years before she will obtain her B.S. degree in education.

Her sister is Mrs. Perry Hilliard, "Mrs. Salem," winner of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. contest.

MR. AND MRS. EDGAR Lynn returned to Reno, Nev., after visiting the Russell Smiths on Columbia St. and other relatives.

Rev. Allen Ebersole, superintendent of the Daily Vacation Bible School, announced a daily average attendance of 195 children for the past week. Total offering was $71.32 to be donated to the American Bible Society.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Extractions, Dentures, Presto!

Grandma had to wait three months after her extractions before she got her false teeth.

Gum: needed time to heal; they had to be toughened. They had to shrink before dentures could be properly fitted.

But just try getting a youthful, active grandmother of today to give up three months of her social life!

And it's quite unnecessary. Modern dentistry with its new thinking and new techniques has eliminated this long delay. Dentures can be placed immediately after the natural teeth have been taken out.

It's really magical; patients awaken from anesthesia with teeth in their mouth!

IMPRESSIONS OF teeth and jaws are taken before the natural teeth are removed. The artificial teeth are constructed to look as much like the natural ones as possible — same shape, size, color and position in the jaw. The way the upper and lower teeth come together can be duplicated if desirable. Improvements can be made in all these departments too.

What about healing of gums, and the toughening process, and shrinkage?

Immediate dentures protect the gums. They act like a bandage. There is usually less bleeding. Food and debris is less apt to get into the sockets.

DENTAL SURGEONS are very clever about smoothing bumps left by extractions. The work of a skillful surgeon is something to admire. Even stitches are in perfect alignment. The denture protects the surgeon's work.

Of course, the gums shrink. Maximum shrinkage occurs during the first three months. At the end of that time, or sooner if necessary, dentures are re-based. Teeth are kept in the same position; only the pink base material is altered to fill in the areas of shrinkage. Rarely is it necessary to remake an entire denture.

Patients find it easier to get used to immediate dentures. Speech is less distorted. Teeth work better and look better. Facial contours and expressions do not change as much and changes are more gradual.

Unfortunately not every case can be treated in this fashion. Your dentist must evaluate each case and make the final decision.
